MJ Hudson launches guide for first-time private equity and venture capital fund managers

MJ Hudson has prepared a guide for emerging managers, which shares valuable insights on launching a PE or VC fund. How to Launch a Private Equity / Venture Capital Fund was written by MJ Hudson, with Robert Eke taking the lead. The guide aims to provide start-up PE and VC fund managers with a wealth of information and advice which will be key to successfully raising their first fund. Topics covered include structure, key fund terms, LP tips, marketing and regulation.

This is the first in a series of planned publications by MJ Hudson with the aim of clarifying key mechanics of the alternative investments sector.

To give prospective managers an extra stepping stone, we have also compiled a directory of recommended advisers, including placement agents, investor relations specialists, fund administrators and regulatory advisers.

Eamon Devlin, Managing Partner at MJ Hudson Law commented "It was time for a client-friendly and useful guide on how to raise a fund. We do hope you find our guide useful (it only took us three years to compile)".
